

RMTC SEEKING EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND COO

The Racing Medication & Testing Consortium is seeking an Executive Director/Chief Operating Officer. The RMTC requires a multi-faceted individual to provide administrative oversight of large-scale drug research projects, implementation of world class laboratory drug testing standards through the United States and Canada and manage the development and promotion of uniform medication rules, policies and guidelines.

The right candidate will possess strong qualifications in the following areas:

Communication – As foremost industry spokesperson on issues relating to medication and testing, this position requires strong speaking and writing abilities to communicate with legislators, commissions, tracks, horsemen, horse racing fans, and the general public.

Administration and Organization – In addition to administration of a $1 million-plus budget and the financial welfare of the organization, this executive director must originate, organize and coordinate research activities of the RMTC through contractual and volunteer third parties relating to medication policy development and laboratory testing.

Education and Experience – Among the experience or education required to perform the above functions effectively is the sufficient scientific knowledge to interact with veterinary and chemistry professionals and researchers, particularly as pertains to the horse racing industry.

The RMTC office, currently with a staff of two additional persons, is located in Lexington, Ky.

Compensation, based upon experience and range of abilities, will be between $100-$150K.

For additional information, please contact RMTC Vice Chairman Chris Scherf at cscherf@tra-online.com.

All interested applicants should send a cover letter and resume to cscherf@tra-online.com or directly to the RMTC office:
